

WELCOME TO DBT!

DBT, or Dialectical Behavior Therapy, is a well researched model of treatment that helps adolescents, adults and children who have difficulties with anxiety, depression, eating disorders, unstable moods, relationships and thoughts of suicide or self-harm. DBT works by teaching concrete skills in an accepting group environment with others who are working through similar challenges.

DBT at Therapy Connections:

- This particular DBT group is geared towards Adolescent Boys, ages 13-17 years
 - Meets for 21 weeks from 5-6:30
 - Encourages parent participation*
- Includes snacks and fun activities that encourage learning DBT Skills

If you have questions about DBT, our group, or whether DBT would be a good fit for you, please give us a call. We look forward to helping you!

Therapy Connections offers an interactive, everyday Adolescent Boys and parent/guardian DBT group experience. Learning DBT skills can be helpful for anyone struggling with: Anxiety, Depression, Mood Disorders, Trauma and other difficulties with behaviors and or relationships.

Our groups run for 21 weeks. New group members are able to start at the beginning of any new skill module.

Group members are expected to:

- Actively participate
 - Complete diary cards and homework between sessions
 - Commit to going through all modules (21 weeks) at least once
 - Respect and support all group members
- low guidelines for group; including regular attendance for group member and parent

Boys DBT Group

Meets for one session per week

5:00-6:30pm

Both the boys and parents will learn and refine skills to reduce:

- Difficult and Unstable Relationships
- School and Peer Challenges
- "Out of Balance" Emotions and Moods
- Unhealthy Thinking Patterns
- Self-Harming thoughts and Behaviors
